

Dracaena in Prime

By Paul Turner © June 12, 2003

Cheers blew in from distant pots.

“She had never been exposed,” said the ficus and the pink hibiscus.

“Never can tell how kind light encourages,” said the cactus.

Flowering on her birthday,

Filling her neighbors—

A sweet success, fifteen years on.